Committee Give Okay to Debt Ceiling Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—A rise in the government's debt ceiling to $285 billion dollars — with temporary permission to go to $200 billion — was approved today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee acted after Secretary of the Treasury Anderson told it a $12-billion-dollar deficit is in prospect for the current fiscal year. The only dissent on the vote came from Rep. Neal Mason (R-Ill.).

The bill probably will come up in the House Monday.

Government fiscal officers have been talking heretofore of a deficit of $10 to $15 billion dollars for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Anderson not only boosted the forecast to $12 billion, he hinted it might be even greater, depending on the course of federal revenues.

The secretary said the $2,800,000,000 deficit for the fiscal year just ended was incurred because of a $3,300,000,000 drop in tax revenues.

In the current fiscal year, he continued, he anticipates a further 2-billion-dollar drop in revenues and a rising level of expenditures to a total of around 70 billions.

An increase in the debt limit is the only sound course at the present time, Anderson said, adding that even the new ceiling may present problems to the Treasury before the end of the fiscal year.

Weisenberger Is Barely Forced Into a Runoff

Royce Weisenberger of Hope and incumbent Travis Mathis of Arkansas went into the runoff in the District 8 Prosecuting Attorney's race on a basis of unofficial returns in yesterday's preferential primary.

Weisenberger was forced into a runoff by only 608 votes. His total was 11,771 on complete returns while Travis Mathis had 9,274 and George Ward had 2,105. The vote by counties all boxes counted:

	Weisenberger	Mathis	Ward
Miller	2,480	1,934	3,060
Nevada	2,001	191	801
Clark	1,951	351	3,268

State May Lose Congressional Seats to Calif.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau said today California may gain seven seats in Congress after the 1960 census—more than twice as many as any other state.

Projecting expected shifts in population, the bureau said 3 states are likely to get bigger delegations and 14 probably will lose seats as a result of the reapportionment which will be made after the 1960 head count. In most cases that will involve redrawing district lines. Sometimes, however, an extra congressman is elected at large.

All the changes will be in the House of Representatives which has a permanent legal membership of 435. Each state by law has two senators, regardless of population.

The projection indicated California's House delegation will increase to 37 members from the present 30.

Other states which are expected to make major gains are Florida, Michigan and Texas.

Major losers probably will be New York and Pennsylvania. The bureau said they are likely to lose three seats each.

Arkansas and Massachusetts would each lose two seats under the new projection.

The census figures indicated a gain of three seats for Florida and two each for Michigan and Texas. They showed probable gains of single seats for Arizona, Indiana, Maryland, Ohio and Oregon.

In addition, Alaska will have one House member when it formally becomes a state. This was taken into account in the projection. However, the census statisticians made no allowance for the possibility that Hawaii also may become a state by the time House seats are reapportioned.

The bureau said losses of one seat are in prospect for each of the following states on the basis of present calculations: Alabama, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, North Carolina and West Virginia.

The 1960 census will be taken starting April 1, 1960.

The Census Bureau now estimates the total population in 1960 will be about 180 million. It was 151,132,000 in 1950.

Gov. Faubus Wins 3rd Term by a Landslide Margin of Over 2 to 1

Two Local Races Are Forced Into July 12 Runoff

Hempstead County voters, like the rest of Arkansas, went overwhelmingly for Governor Orval Faubus giving him 3,820 votes to 749 for Ward and 715 for Finkbeiner.

The largest vote was cast in the Prosecuting Attorney's race totaling 5,355. The favorite son, Royce Weisenberger polled 3,914 of these while his nearest opponent, Travis Mathis received 1,139 and George Edwards was the third man with 302.

In both the county races a runoff was assured with voters dividing their ballots between three candidates.

The final box decided who would oppose Garrett Willis, incumbent, for tax assessor and ended with only 9 votes difference. Willis received 2,167 votes; Carter Sutton, 1,570, barely edging Mrs. W. I. Stroud who polled 1,561 votes. This put Willis and Sutton in the runoff.

Shirley J. Cook led two opponents but will be opposed by Jimmie Griffin in a runoff. Cook received 2,423 votes to Griffin's 2,130 and Arnold Middlebrooks' 766.

REELECTED — Voters in the Arkansas primary reelected by a landslide Gov. Orval Faubus in his bid for a third term. ## Vote Mandate Against School Integration

By CLIFTON WELLS
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus Tuesday won an overwhelming mandate to resist school integration as he swept a third-term Democratic nomination.

"The returns indicate clearly the sentiments of the people," he said in a victory statement.

Crowds of jubilant supporters overflowed into the street in front of Faubus' downtown campaign headquarters here and a sound truck screeched "Dixie," the traditional Southern fight song, as the outcome of the building in the preferential primary became evident.

Faubus bowed over two opponents by the widest majority ever accorded a gubernatorial candidate in Arkansas. In this heavily Democratic state, nomination is tantamount to election.

With 2,180 of 2,321 precincts reporting, Faubus amassed 243,253 votes. Chris Finkbeiner, 37-year-old Little Rock meat packer, received 53,033 votes, and Lee Ward, 51, a state judge from Paragould, 53,490.

Finkbeiner and Ward were avowed segregationists but advocated a law and order procedure on integration problems.

Faubus, 48, assumed the role as the South's leading exponent of segregation last September when he ordered Arkansas National Guardsmen to turn away nine Negro children seeking to enter Little Rock Central High School. The students were armed with a federal court order directing desegregation of the previously all-white school.

President Eisenhower met Faubus' dramatic challenge by federalizing the State Guard and ordering Army paratroopers to Little Rock to enforce the court order.

Faubus, destined to become the second governor in Arkansas history elected to a third term, still must face a Republican nominee in the general election in November. But no Republican has held state office in Arkansas since the Reconstruction era after the Civil War.

Republicans will choose between Donald D. Lane, 34, a Little Rock civil engineer, and George W. Johnson, a 75-year-old Greenwood attorney, in their first statewide primary Aug. 12.

Moscow Claims U. S. Plane Forced Back

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio asserted today a U.S. plane had flown 155 miles into the Soviet Union and was forced to turn back by Soviet fighters. It said the plane flew from the direction of Iran.

Moscow radio said protest notes were handed to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Iranian Ambassador Mostafa Samis in Moscow.

The notes said that on July 26 a U.S. military aircraft flying from the direction of Iran crossed the Soviet border in the Caspian Sea area, 120 miles southeast of the town of Asmara.

The Soviet note did not say whether the Soviet fighters had opened up on the plane.

Soviet jets shot down a U.S. transport plane in Soviet Armenia June 27. The nine American crewmen escaped with minor injuries.

The Moscow broadcast quoted the Soviet note as saying the U.S. "intrusion into Soviet" air space was deliberate.

Headquarters of Faubus Jubilant

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The jubilant crowd at the campaign headquarters of Gov. Orval Faubus never doubted the outcome after the moment the scattered early returns came in.

"It's in the bag for Orval now," a well-dressed man outside the building commented.

At the headquarters of Chancellor Lee Ward, silence and gloom descended about an hour after the first returns.

"Arkansas is disgraced," a middle-aged woman said as she stalked away from the jubilation near Main and Markham streets where all the candidates had their headquarters.

The forces of Chris Finkbeiner did not give up completely until nearly three hours after the returns came in. Finkbeiner, looking like an eternal optimist who nevertheless knows it isn't his day, waited for Pulaski County returns to vault him back into the race. The Pulaski vote didn't help.

But Finkbeiner's headquarters were crowded and the atmosphere was recharged with cheerful resignation. Visitors and well-wishers continued on Page Three

An unidentified Negro worker was burned by flaming oil.

The storage building, which contained no oil, was destroyed. Two or three small discharging units also were lost in the fire.

Four North Little Rock fire companies rushed to the scene. They had the blaze under control in about an hour.

Campbell Wins in Pulaski

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County Judge Arch Campbell won a fifth term in yesterday's Democratic primary but the sheriff's race was headed for a runoff Aug. 12.

With all boxes counted, Campbell polled 25,306 votes to 19,219 for Sheriff Tom Gulley and 5,520 for North Little Rock Alderman John C. May.

Former Chief Deputy Sam Halum led the sheriff's ticket with 11,900 votes. He will face L. C. Young, a service station owner, in the runoff. Young polled 15,710 votes. Present Chief Deputy Monroe Love was eliminated with 11,611 votes.

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

ELECTION NIGHT BITS: One candidate, barely leading the ticket, just couldn't understand what happened in a couple of boxes. The next morning he told his wife: "I would have told him that nothing is more trustworthy than a voter except a politician."

From the crowd a voice roared that a certain Little Rock newspaper would be up for sale today.

"An aged fellow, apparently disappointed, told another elderly friend, 'I've got just as good a governor as you have.'"

All in all it was a fairly quiet election that moved fast.

It was practically over by 9:30 with only one box out and that one came in shortly after 10 p.m. in the next one on August 12 will not likely move as fast.

Herbert Valentine, music and educational director of First Baptist Church has resigned effective August 15. He has accepted a post at Petal, Mississippi.

Easy Pay Tire Store, East Second St., has a new manager, Herbert Kidd, Spring Hill native.

The boys at Bud Collier's, Harvey Montgomery and Elgie Carmon, killed a rattlesnake enroute to work this morning. It measured just under five feet and had nine rattlers. They killed it on the highway near Blevins.

About 1,500 TB x-rays were given in Hempstead by the Health Department's mobile unit. This compares with 1,937 given a year ago. However, the unit operated an extra day last year and the x-ray machine was broken down most of yesterday afternoon.

Working yesterday in giving 400 tests were Jayettes Mrs. Bob Herndon, Mrs. Grady Burton, Mrs. Julius Adams, Mrs. Gene White, Mrs. J. E. Martin and Mrs. Paul McClellan.

Headquarters

ate hot dogs that came from the Little Rock meat packer's plant. A coffee battle of sound erupted as the early returns drifted in. Faubus headquarters blared the results and played "Dixie." Across the street, Finkbeiner headquarters turned up its volume and played marches.

The sporadic crashing of music and shouting of results went on for hours as hundreds of persons milled around in the traffic-clogged streets.

Faubus headquarters was jammed with exuberant followers. The governor arrived about 8 p. m. when the landslide had become dramatically apparent.

He slipped outside and walked along the street, heading for several television appearances to the accompaniment of cheers and hand clapping.

"This is just like the Mardi Gras," a pretty teen-ager shouted to a friend.

There was one curious incident. A middle-aged Negro man appeared at Faubus headquarters and stood weeping in a corner.

"He wants to see the governor," an attractive white woman explained. "He dreamed five months ago that the governor would win without a runoff."

The man apparently missed the governor.

One of the congratulatory telegrams to Faubus—signed by Jos Crocker of Calico Rock—said: "It's all over. We laughed with Chris, cried with Ward and voted for Faubus."

DOROTHY DIX

Woman, You're 50,
Forget Teen-Age Beau

Dear Dorothy Dix: Several weeks ago you answered Dolores in what I think was the wrong way. She was marrying a man although she still carried a torch for her first sweetheart. You said she was romanticizing this first romance. I disagree because I am a recent divorcee. I have loved a man for 37 years and love him still. Although I have been married to another man for 31 years and have four children, I was only 15 when I met Joel, my first and only love. Circumstances drove us apart when I was 18. A few years later I married a man 12 years my senior. Why did I marry him? Because I needed a meal ticket. He loved me and still does although I tell him over and over that I don't love him. If I leave him, there goes my meal ticket so I stick around. I sit for hours living over those three wonderful years of my teens. That's all the happiness I get out of life. Minnie learn to share your husband's consuming passion? I'm sure the house is cluttered with magazines and other reading matter on hot rods. Read some of it and ask him with your interest. You know, the things we hate are likely to be the things we don't understand.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am desperately in love with three different boys. Mike is the cutest — all the girls envy me when they see us together. Jack is the bookworm. Without him I'd never graduate next year so I just keep him on. Bob showers me with luxuries since he is the one with money, actually, I can't let him go. I'm going steady with all of them, but none knows about the others. I need all three; what can I do? Cuddles

Action Held Up on Citing Mr. Goldfine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee held up action today on the question of citing Bernard Goldfine for contempt of Congress.

The committee met in a closed-door session, but Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) said copies of the hearing record and other documents the committee wanted to have before it were not ready.

Williams said the necessary papers might be prepared in time for a vote late today but that action probably would be delayed until tomorrow.

Hays, Trimble Are Returned to Congress

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas voters returned two veteran congressmen to the national House for new terms in yesterday's preferential Democratic primary.

Rep. J. W. Trimble of Berryville snored under three opponents in the Third District of northwest Arkansas.

In the central Arkansas Fifth District Rep. Brooks Hays of Little Rock bent back another attempt to unseat him by segregationist leader Amis Guthridge of Little Rock, whom Hays had defeated once before.

With 197 of 240 precincts reported, Hays had 28,610 votes to 16,578 for Guthridge and 856 for E.M. Harrington of Solgachalia, Conway County, who gave up the race after it was too late to remove his name from the ticket.

Trimble polled 39,230 votes to 11,292 for his nearest opponent, Chancellor Franklin Wilcox of Port Smith. Donald Poe of Walgren got 6,448. Lee M. Whitaker of Port Smith 1,244. The totals were for 461 of the district's 511 boxes.

In view of the clear majority in the congressional races, no runoff will be necessary in either district.

President Eisenhower asked Monday for an eight-billion-dollar increase in the debt limit to a new top of 288 billions. This would be higher than any except the 300-billion-dollar limit authorized in 1945 in the closing days of World War II.

Reasons for raising the government's borrowing authority stem from the business recession, inflationary price rises, and larger-than-expected government spending occasioned largely by anti-inflation and defense expenditures.

Sees Harm in Steel Price Hike

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Armeto Steel Corp. has announced the first 1958 steel price boost for Thursday — a move Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) says "will do our economic recovery a great deal of harm if sustained."

The Armeto price hike, the company said Tuesday night, averages 2.75 per cent on 12 products, including hot and cold rolled sheets, and adds up to about $4.50 a ton. Kefauver, head of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, said in Washington the Armeto action was "not justified" and would be a topic at a meeting of his committee today.

"In the interest of holding the line against inflation, I hope Armeto will call off the increase and that other companies will not follow it," the senator added.

Other major producers of steel made no immediate commitment to follow Armeto's lead. But many repeated what they have been saying for months — that they must pass on to consumers at least part of cost increases they attribute to a wage boost for United Steelworkers unionists July 1.

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish Communist party today accused the Roman Catholic Church of blatant law violation and warned: "The state authority cannot allow places of religious worship and the churches of monasteries to be used as screen for illegal activities."

The editorial in the party organ Trybuna Ludu followed a government charge that the Jasna Gora (Golden Hill) monastery, a church shrine, was used as cover for an illegal printing house.

Dodgers Look Like Champs Against Braves

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For some reason, the cellar-dwelling Los Angeles Dodgers play like champions against the Milwaukee Braves. By the same token, Fred Haney's contenders roll over and play dead before the Dodgers, especially when Don Drysdale is on the mound.

That's what happened Tuesday night again when the Dodgers defeated the Braves 4-2 to dump them out of first place. A full game behind the incredible San Francisco Giants, who again came from behind for a ninth inning 4-8 victory in Cincinnati.

The Dodgers' victory was their ninth in 13 meetings with the Braves this season. Drysdale, who has whiffed Milwaukee three times without a defeat, had a shut-out until the ninth when Wes Covington slammed his 10th home run. Drysdale, who has lost 10 decisions, has won only two games against the rest of the league.

Pittsburgh climbed into third place, 6 1/2 games off the pace, downing Chicago 6-4. Philadelphia gained a split with St. Louis, winning the scheduled game 3-2 in 11 innings after losing 4-3 a game that had been suspended by the Sunday curfew law a month ago.

In the American League, the Kansas City Athletics walloped the New York Yankees 7-3. Cleveland drubbed Baltimore 9-4. Chicago shined Washington 2-1 and Boston outlasted Detroit 11-8 in an 11-inning slugfest.

Ray Jablonski's two-run homer with two out in the ninth off Red right-hander Willard Schmidt gave the Giants another come-from-behind victory. Schmidt, asked to protect a 3-2 lead furnished by Frank Robinson's 18th home run, retired the first two batters in the ninth. Then Willie Mays singled to set the stage for Jablonski's 19th homer.

Forty-year-old Merv Grissom, in relief, gained his seventh victory. Rookie first baseman Dick Stuart, who clouded a bases-loaded three-bagger to spark a four-run rally in the fifth that enabled the Pirates to overcome a 4-1 Chicago lead. Bob Friend won his 13th Philadelphia, 12-6.

Strikeouts — Jones, St. Louis, 13; Podes, Los Angeles and Roberts, Philadelphia, 10.

Arkansas' Lollar Best in League

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Sherm Lollar, considered by many as the finest catcher in the major leagues, is leading for his greatest season in baseball and the man from Arkansas credits the short cool summer with a big assist.

Lollar slugged a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning Tuesday night to give the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

It was the second night in a row that Lollar had helped the Sox win a game with a home run. The 33-year-old veteran from Durham, Ark., homered with two on Monday night to help the Sox win a 6-5 decision over Washington.

What is it that's making Lollar the hero in Chicago's camp?

"The cool weather we've been having," says Lollar. "I've been off to good starts before but the hot weather usually saps my strength. This year, it's been different. We've had cool weather and I'm not as tired as I usually get."

This appears to be Sherm's big year. He is close to a 300 average with 15 homers and 62 runs batted in. His previous high in homers was 16 in 1955. His top average came in 1950 when he hit .293 and knocked in 75 runs.

although he needed help from R. G. Smith and Elroy Face.

Pinch hitter Vally Post doubled home Chico Fernandez with the run that gave the Phils their 11-inning 3-2 triumph over St. Louis.

The Cards' Sam Jones had a 2-0 lead and 20 consecutive scoreless innings when the Phils scored once in the seventh on Fernandez's double, and tied the score in the ninth on Willie Jones' single.

The Cards halted a Phillie rally in the eighth to win the suspended game.

Ted Williams Does Some Fine Clutch Hitting

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The other day, a Boston writer chided in a magazine article that Ted Williams was a dismal failure as a clutch hitter.

The link had hardly dried Tuesday night when the Boston Red Sox slugger reloaded in typical Williams manner—with one of the greatest clutch performances in his career.

He hit a grand slam homer in the third inning after Detroit had taken a 4-0 lead. He singled in a three-run seventh after Detroit had knotted a 5-5 count. And he homered again, with two mates aboard in the 11th, after the Tigers had come from behind a second time to draw even 8-8.

The last blow, Williams' 17th of the season and 473rd of his career, gave the Red Sox an 11-3 triumph. Ted's first homer was his 17th lifetime grand slammer, tying him with Babe Ruth for second place, behind Lou Gehrig, who accumulated 23.

Boston's victory reduced New York's first-place lead to 14 games. The Yankees bowed to Kansas City 7-3. Cleveland and trimmed Baltimore 9-4 and Chicago nipped Washington 2-1.

In the National League, the San Francisco Giants climbed to the top with a 4-3 victory over Cincinnati as Los Angeles topped Milwaukee 4-2. Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 6-4 and St. Louis split with Philadelphia, winning 4-3 and losing 3-2.

Almost all the action in the New York-Kansas City game came in the eighth inning, marked by rambunctious in which players from both sides and A's Manager Harry Craft were ejected by Umpire Bill Summers for protesting decisions. The players were Harry Chitt of the A's and Hank Bauer of the Yanks.

Held to three hits by Ralph Terry and trailing 2-0, the Yanks tied the score in the top of the eighth only to see the A's score five times in their half. Hector Lopez's double with the bases loaded was the big blow. Murry Dickson, who replaced Terry in the eighth, was the winner. Art Ditmar, who succeeded Whitey Ford, was the loser.

Sherman Lollar's two-run homer with two out in the ninth ruined an excellent pitching performance by Washington right-hander Russ Kemmerer, and carried the White Sox to their 2-1 triumph.

Bob Shaw, who replaced Dick Donovan in the ninth was the winner.

Gary Bell scattered eight hits and catcher Russ Nixon drove in three runs with a home run and single in the Indians' triumph over Baltimore.

Ike Decides on Meeting in Two Weeks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has decided to propose that a summit conference on the Middle East crisis be opened in the U. N. Security Council in two weeks.

Eisenhower has drafted a note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev suggesting a range of dates between Aug. 10 and 15. The note is now being discussed with Britain and France. The consultations may result in some changes, but it is expected to be dispatched to Moscow within the next day or so.

One possible modification would be to propose a specific date. One well-informed U. S. official said the United Nations headquarters in New York is the logical place to hold the extraordinary session but that Eisenhower is willing to go to some other city—probably Geneva—if others prefer.

Eisenhower's latest note is in answer to an angry Khrushchev message Monday.

The Soviet leader accused Eisenhower then of virtually rejecting the heads of government conference, of being responsible for aggression in the Middle East and of plotting new military adventures there.

Khrushchev also called again for a five-power meeting outside the U. N. But the Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday night this was not a rejection of a U. N. meeting, and said Khrushchev still is willing to attend a Security Council meeting.

The U. S. official who declined to be specifically identified called the Khrushchev note "a shocking disappointment" to the President and Secretary of State Dulles.

It indicated they were determined generally to ignore the abusive tone and accusations of the Khrushchev letter and concentrate on two points. These are: 1. Khrushchev's insistence on holding a five-power conference to deal with the Middle East situation represents a policy of big power rule of the world. The United States rejects that policy. The United States insists that the projected conference should actually be an extraordinary meeting of the U. N. Security Council and not just a meeting of the chiefs of the great powers under the cover of the United Nations.

2. The United States is prepared to go into such a meeting of the U. N. Security Council on any convenient day in the period Aug. 10-15. Eisenhower would be agreeable to a later date, officials said, if the Security Council feels that more time is required to organize the special session.

U. S. officials said that in addition to the formal meetings of the United Nations Council, of which all the great powers are members, there would certainly be private talks which would bring together such men as Eisenhower, Khrushchev, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French Premier de Gaulle and, assuming his invitation by the whole Security Council, Prime Minister Nehru of India.

This moves a bit closer to the British view. Conservative Leader R. A. Butler told the House of Commons that while he thinks it most desirable that the conference should be associated with the United Nations, we also strongly support the principle that there should be private meetings simultaneously.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF
THE JAW BREAKER

Twenty-first of a series

by Donald J. Sobol

"You asked me to drop in on your junior partner, Everett Montague and find out how he feels," said Dr. Haledjian. "You broke his jaw, among other things, but he isn't going to charge you with assault. Now, kindly tell me what this is all about."

"I've suspected that Montague was interested in my wife," said John Wilmet. "I couldn't prove any misconduct, though. Then three days ago Anne went to Cairo City to visit an aunt. For the day, and yesterday I received an anonymous telephone call."

"The caller swore Anne had seen Montague at his hunting lodge, which is less than five miles from Cairo City."

"An hour after the call, I had lunch with Montague and innocently asked him to have me up to the lodge for a weekend of hunting. He was reluctant, said the lodge hadn't been used for months, but finally consented."

"Upon reaching the lodge, we immediately went out to hunt. We shot two rabbits, and while Montague prepared the game, I looked around."

"It's hard to tell whether a place has been occupied recently, especially if care is taken to cover up. Montague observed my guarded snooping with a supercilious air."

"The lodge was well provisioned with food and drink. We ate the rabbits and canned peas and potatoes in strained silence. I was just taking a swallow of sweet elder from a half-filled jug - Montague drank Irish whiskey - when he said:

"I know what you're really hunting for up here, John."

That's when I hit him.

"That's when I hit him. He scrambled out the door and I chased him. I guess I'd have killed him with my bare hands if those two hunters hadn't separated us."

"Haledjian knocked the ashes from his pipe into the fireplace. 'I don't condone violence,' he said. 'Still, I can readily understand why Montague charged you with assault.'"

Election of Shehab Seen
in Lebanon

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT (AP) — Speaker Adel Osseltrah predicted today Parliament will elect Gen. Fuad Shehab as Lebanon's president despite maneuvers of the opposition National Front.

Osseltrah said a quorum of the 60 Parliament deputies will be present for the election session Thursday. He said Shehab, the non-partisan army chief of staff, will be elected "by a unanimous vote" to succeed Camille Chamoun Sept. 23. Chamoun cannot succeed himself.

The National Front, which includes leaders of Lebanon's 62-day-old rebellion, said it would support no candidate unless it demanded immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Informants close to Shehab doubted he would agree to any conditions. The 56-year-old army commander has insisted he would accept election only if no strings are attached.

U. S. Ambassador Robert McClintock, reportedly has insisted the election be held Thursday. They already have been postponed one week.

McClintock reportedly fears any further delay will increase chances of serious trouble and of U. S. troops getting involved. But a compromise election alone will not permit withdrawal of the American troops, the U. S. Embassy said. That will depend on re-establishment of internal security and a U. N. guarantee of Lebanese independence, a spokesman said.

Robert Murphy, deputy U. S. undersecretary of state who has been trying to work out a political compromise in Lebanon, was expected in Amman late today to discuss the Jordanian situation with King Hussein's government.

A time bomb wrecked the British library and information center in Amman Tuesday night, slightly injuring an Arab girl employee. A second time bomb exploded outside the garage of the assistant manager of a British-owned bank.

The bombings obviously were in retaliation for the presence of 2,000 British paratroopers on the Amman airfield. They were sent in July 17 from Cyprus at the request of Hussein.

President Nasser of the United Arab Republic has called for Hussein's overthrow and the Jordanian government has accused the U. A. R. of sending in arms and men from its Syrian province.

At a news conference, Hagerty was asked whether Eisenhower might decide to take a vacation if Congress adjourns by Aug. 15 and Middle East tensions ease.

"I haven't heard any discussion of it," Hagerty replied.

'Actual' Signs Are Removed

OMAHA (AP) — Signs reading "SAC alert in progress—actual," have been removed from Offutt Air Force Base gates here, but there was no explanation.

A Strategic Air Command spokesman said the signs had been taken down, but that SAC is not in a position to make any comment. The SAC alert was precipitated by the landing of U.S. troops in Lebanon. At that time headquarters spokesmen said only "SAC has increased its alert posture."

Verhey left the room, and Morrison looked around. All the furniture seemed to be new. There wasn't anything he could see that could have been over two years old. That was an oddity. Even in the homes of the newly married, there was usually something from home, or something from life they had lived before marrying.

Verhey returned in a short while. "She'll be right out. Have you any idea at all why someone would want to do a thing like that?"

"Not yet," Morrison answered. "We can't find a reason for his going out. Did you know the boy?"

"Yes, I guess you could say I knew him," Verhey agreed. "He was a quiet little kid, never had much to say. Not unfriendly, you understand, just kind of shy. We talked a few times while I was working in the yard. Can't even remember what we talked about now."

Morrison nodded. "His mother says he was a very well-behaved boy, and we've found nothing to make us think otherwise. That's what makes it so difficult to find his reason for sneaking out."

Helen Verhey entered. Verhey rose and, taking her by the hand, led her to the couch beside him.

SHE was a tall, slender woman, and one of the few he had ever seen that looked good in the tight-legged pants she was wearing.

"I'm sorry to bother you so late, Mrs. Verhey, but you weren't at home when we were here earlier."

"No we went to dinner and early show, downtown, but don't apologize. Anything we can do to help, we are more than willing to do."

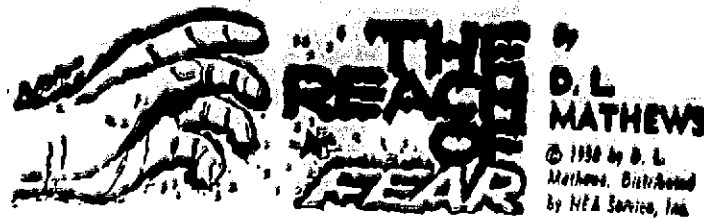

"Thank you. I'll ask you the same thing I asked Mr. Verhey. Did you notice anything out of the ordinary after you got home last night?"

She wrinkled her forehead in concentration. "I can't think of a thing. I was in the kitchen several times and that looked out on the boy's bedroom window, but I didn't notice anything unusual."

"Were you well acquainted with the boy?"

"No, I knew who he was, of course, living right next door, but I'm seldom home during the day, and even when I am, I seldom go into the yard like Hal does."

Chapter 3
By D. L. MATHEWS
THE STORY: Police Lieutenant Morrison has been unable to establish a motive for the brutal slaying of a 13-year-old boy Bruce Adams. There was no evidence to indicate a sex crime. The only clues are tire prints and foot prints.

Chapter III
THE man that answered Morrison's ring was tall and slender, and with more than average good looks. He had wavy dark hair that grew in a widow's peak, and brown eyes that were soft and kind. The only thing that kept him from being out and out handsome was a kind of indefinable lack of character in his face.

"Good evening?" It was more a question than a greeting and, considering the hour, he had a point.

"Good evening. I'm sorry to bother you so late, but I'm Lieutenant Morrison of the police. I'd like to ask you a few questions, Mr. Verhey."

He couldn't be sure but for a moment it had seemed an expression of fear had crossed Verhey's face, although it was gone in a flash.

Hal Verhey stepped back, and ran his palm down the grey-satin lapel of his smoking jacket. "Please come in. We heard about it on the news, while we were driving home."

Morrison stepped inside. The room was done in very modern furniture. The chairs looked like upended baskets.

"Let me take your coat and hat," Verhey's voice was as hearty as if he were welcoming an old friend.

"Thank you, no. This won't take long enough to bother," Morrison lowered himself gingerly to the edge of one of the basket chairs. He wasn't sure whether it would break under his two hundred plus. Much to his surprise it held him.

"First, I'd like to know if you heard or saw anything last night that seemed out of the ordinary to you. Noises, strangers around, anything like that?"

Verhey had dropped on the couch and lounged. "Relaxed. Not a thing that I can think of."

He studied the toe of his well-shined shoe, for a moment, then continued, "Helen and I had dinner out last night. We do that quite often. With my wife working, cooking at home every night can get to be just too much of a good thing. We got home about 8:30. Helen puttered around like women do. Hair, stockings, things like that. I watched television, and we both went to bed about 11:30. There just wasn't a thing unusual."

"When you got home, you didn't see anyone loitering around, or the Adams boy starting to go anywhere?"

"No, I heard he climbed out his bedroom window. Well he could have been doing that when we drove up and we couldn't have seen him. The carport is on the other side of the house."

"I see. Would it be possible for me to talk to Mrs. Verhey? Being in other rooms of the house from you, she may have seen something that had no special meaning for her at the time, but it might help now."

Verhey left the room, and Morrison looked around. All the furniture seemed to be new. There wasn't anything he could see that could have been over two years old. That was an oddity. Even in the homes of the newly married, there was usually something from home, or something from life they had lived before marrying.

Gavin Slams
More Salvos
at Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin has freed strong new salvos of criticism at Pentagon policies and leveled an especially heavy blast at his old boss, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

Gavin, who quit the Army last March after public disagreement with actions of the Defense Department, said Wilson tended to deal with his chiefs of staff "as though they were recalcitrant union bosses."

He quoted one unidentified chief of staff as calling Wilson "the most uninformed man, and the most determined to remain so."

Wilson seemed to be new. There wasn't anything he could see that could have been over two years old. That was an oddity. Even in the homes of the newly married, there was usually something from home, or something from life they had lived before marrying.

Verhey returned in a short while. "She'll be right out. Have you any idea at all why someone would want to do a thing like that?"

Negroes Will Try to Enter
Louisiana S.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Negroes trying to break the color barrier in Southern institutions of higher learning Wednesday swung their sights at Louisiana State University's New Orleans branch and the trade school at Shreveport.

Two suits seeking similar relief were filed in federal district court Tuesday. Both ask temporary and permanent injunctions and a declaratory judgment against the two schools from barring the admission of Negroes.

Eleven Negroes—four adults and seven minors—joined in filing the suit against Louisiana State University in New Orleans (LSUO) which opens for the first time this fall.

However, Attorney A. P. Tureaud said 75 negroes were refused admittance. They were told the rejection was in compliance with the laws of Louisiana and the policy of the LSU Board of Supervisors.

Four negroes signed the complaint against the all-white Shreveport trade school. State officials said no negroes have been admitted to white trade schools.

Nowhere, Negroes have attended graduate school at the Baton Rouge LSU campus since 1950. And Negro undergraduates backed by court orders attend three state colleges, McNeese State College at Lake Charles, Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond and Southwestern Louisiana Institute at Lafayette.

LSU's policy is to admit Negro students only under court order. An LSU spokesman said the suit would be contested.

Tureaud's son A. P. Tureaud Jr., was the only Negro to attend LSU as an undergraduate.

He took a special arts and science-law course in 1954 but was forced out after a few months as the case was appealed. He commented that has even been secretary."

Gavin's pointed remarks were contained in the first of two articles published by Life magazine from the ex-officers' forthcoming book "War and Peace in the Peace Age."

Wilson was quick to answer Gavin, who was Army chief of research and development. Speaking from his summer home at Boyne City, Mich., he described Gavin as "just another overly inflated Army officer with an exaggerated regard of his ability."

The former General Motors president, who left the defense post last October, said there was no basis for Gavin's comments and added: "He was not that close to me. I talked to him only on rare occasions. . . . He's just trying to sell his book."

Gavin also voiced criticism of retired Adm. Arthur W. Radford, who for four years was chairman of the Joint Chiefs. Coincidentally, he praised Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army chief of staff.

"Somehow, despite Secretary Wilson and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff," Gavin wrote, "Gen. Ridgway managed to hold together an army and continue to ready that army for the nuclear-missile-space age."

"And he did so despite a consistently shrinking budget. Yet from what I saw as one of his senior staff officers it was plainly not the shrinking budget that was bothersome. . . . It was the deception and duplicity of those with whom he had had to work in the Department of Defense."

Radford was unavailable for comment.
